

PRESS RELEASE – IMMEDIATE RELEASE – 19 JUNE 2009

Banks, economics and bonuses: Spring Harvest tackles ethical issues head on Banks, economics and bonuses; Euthanasia and assisted dying; Ethical consumerism - fair trade and food miles; these are just some of the topics that the Spring Harvest programme will cover in 2010. Shaped by the application of Biblical truth, these topics will seek to challenge the church's perspective.

Spring Harvest in 2010, invites Guests to engage in the story of ethics, through the event's theme Different Eyes. Ethics aren't just choices. They're moral decisions about life. Sometimes everyday life. Sometimes extraordinary circumstances. They provoke the most passionate discussion whether in parliament, church, our families and schools, the office, or down the pub.

At Spring Harvest, Guests will discover that the hope of the world is not liberty or justice, or equality or democracy - it's Jesus and a community committed to ethics. The goal of a Christ-centred life and community is not to feel good, but to know and do good. We're distinctive, because we're Christ's people and we live in God's story. "...be transformed by the renewing of your mind." Romans 12:2

Inspirational teaching and vibrant worship will again form an integral part of this popular event, attracting some of the most gifted Bible teachers and worship leaders.

Wendy, Director of Spring Harvest said "We're so looking forward to Spring Harvest 2010. The people of God are called to be distinctive, and this journey of Different Eyes will cause us to look deeper at how to be more Christ-centred in every area of our lives, perhaps areas we've never delved into before".
